“ I didn't realize what gift growing up on on the family farm southeast of Milligan was--I don't have memories of any mountains, no oceans or beaches, or big city activities. What I do have is memories of working with Dad and Mom to help raise crops and cattle, looking at the stars, sunrises, sunsets, and playing in the snow. Most times when we left the farm, the first place we drove past was the land where Bucko farmed. Looking back, so many of my good childhood memories are of being on the farm, and Bucko is there, red and white ford truck or John Deer 4010 circled in the driveway, in many of them, including an early one when Dad convinced me that Bucko and Ernie were a real-life version of the Sesame Street characters Burt and Ernie. I always thought He was more like the Ernie character, though, because of his ever-present smile and cheerful optimism. Thank you, Bucko for all the great memories you helped create with my family growing up on the farm.

“ Well "Things are getting serious" You all have our deepest condolences Our memories are all good times. We shared work and a beer. When down we tried to cheer each other up. Bucko openly shared his farming and worldly knowledge with us. Our kids were always glad when Emil came on the farm and in the house. A truly missed wonderful friend and neighbor. Thinking of you, David and Denise and family
