“ James was so very fortunate to have the support of Support workers that cared about him and showed him love. Following the death of his parents, Frank and Agnes James was left in this world with vacancies. The Support works became a much needed family and support to James. James taught many the importance of living life to the fullest. I smile in thinking of that reunification between Frank, Agnes, and James.
Thanks to those Support workers that made an impact on James's life over the decades.

“ So sorry for your loss. I was Jame's In-Home-Instructor with Region V Services back in 1980 I believe. At that time James was totally dependent on his parents. They were interested in helping him become more independent so he could move into a supported setting so that he would be taken care of in case something happened to them. James was a very quick learner and soon started feeding himself and dressing himself with his parents daily guided practice. I loved working with him and his family. They loved James so much and he was such a sweet kid. I will always remember James. He taught me so much and gave nothing but pure innocent love to his family. He can only be embraced in total love and peace now.
